

Getting around

Getting out and about with children with disability can take extra planning. Help is available to make it easier for your child and family.

Accessible parking

Parking as close as possible to your destination is helpful. An Accessible Parking Permit allows you to use specially marked parking spaces. Here's how to get one:

Start the application online and you will receive an application reference number via SMS.

Give this reference number to your GP or your child's occupational therapist, who will complete the form online and submit the application.

Your child is usually eligible for an Accessible Parking permit if they have:

- A significant mobility impairment
- A severe medical condition affecting their ability to walk short distances
- A significant cognitive, behavioural, or neurological impairment that requires a support person for safety

Changing Places

As your child grows, regular public bathrooms may no longer be suitable, especially if your child has continence support needs.

Changing Places bathrooms are designed specifically for people with higher support needs and offer excellent features that make using the bathroom easier for you and your child.

These features include:

- Height adjustable adult-sized changing table
- Ceiling hoist (you need to bring your own hoist sling)
- Space to manoeuvre a wheelchair or other mobility aids
- Centrally located toilet with dropdown grab rails

How do I find a Changing Places bathroom?

There are currently 97 Changing Places across Victoria, you can find where they are located on their website. Many Changing Places bathrooms are kept locked and require an MLAK key (Master Locksmiths Access Key) to open them.

MLAK key

MLAK is a master key that provides access to various facilities, making it easier to get around the community. You can use an MLAK key to open Changing Places bathrooms, unlock gates and ramps on Liberty Swings, and access elevators at railway stations.

You can order an MLAK key for $25 by filling out the form on the Master Locksmiths Association website. If you have a Victorian Companion Card, you will get a free MLAK key.

Public transport

Accessibility

In metropolitan Melbourne, all trains are wheelchair accessible, with designated spaces for passengers using mobility aids. The platforms have wheelchair symbols to indicate where to board the train, and the first door of the first carriage typically provides a ramp for easier boarding and disembarking. You must be at this marked spot when the train enters the station so that the train driver can see you on the platform.

Melbourne train stations are accessible via ramps or lifts. Some ramps may be steeper, so you may require assistance.

Most train stations in regional Victoria are wheelchair accessible. You can get more information on the V/Line website.

Most local buses in Victoria have low floors, and some can be lowered closer to the kerb by the driver.

Trams have both low and high-floor options. Low-floor trams have designated spaces for mobility aids, marked with a wheelchair symbol on the floor. High-floor trams have steps and are not suitable for certain mobility aids. The Yarra Trams website provides more detailed information about using a mobility aid on the tram network.

You can call 1800 800 007 to check the accessibility of trains, buses and trams.

Free travel

You travel for free on the weekends if you receive the Disability Support Pension, the Carer Payment, or if you have a Carer Card ('we care').

Companion Card holders can travel free when travelling with the person they care for.

Access Travel Pass

If your or your child's disability makes it difficult to touch on and touch off on public transport using myki, you can apply for an Access Travel Pass. The Pass gives you free travel on Victorian public transport and comes with a lanyard and photo ID. Remember to carry it with you whenever you travel. This pass is for people with disability who can travel independently. You can print the form from the website link below. A health practitioner will need to complete part of it.

You are eligible if:

- You're a permanent Victorian resident
- You have a permanent physical disability, cognitive condition, or mental illness
- You're able to travel independently
- You find it difficult to touch on or off or remember to do so

Scooter and Wheelchair Travel Pass

This allows individuals who rely on a scooter or wheelchair for mobility to travel free on public transport in Victoria.

To be eligible you must:

- Have a permanent and severe disability
- Depend on a scooter or wheelchair for mobility outside the home
- Be a Victorian resident

The pass is valid for travel on metropolitan trains, trams, and buses, V/Line trains and coaches, regional town buses, and regional services contracted with Public Transport Victoria.

If you are travelling with a scooter or wheelchair on a V/Line train or coach, it's recommended to book 24 hours in advance.

Bookings can be made through the V/Line website or by calling 1800 800 007.

Multi-Purpose Taxi Program (MPTP)

If your child receives the Disability Support Pension and has a severe and permanent disability that prevents them from safely using public transport, they may be eligible for an MPTP card.

MPTP cardholders receive a 50% discount off the standard fare (up to $60 per trip).

Things to remember:

- When booking a vehicle, ask for a fare estimate in advance
- Inform the driver that you have an MPTP card at the start of the journey
- The passenger is responsible for paying any road tolls or airport fees

Details on how to apply can be found on the Commercial Passenger Vehicle Victoria website. Your doctor will need to complete a medical assessment online.
